

Mobility grants scheme

as amended on 9 September 2016

The mobility grants scheme that has been launched consists of 3 parts:

1. a grant scheme for students,
2. a short-term mobility grant scheme for scholars and staff
3. and a long-term mobility grant scheme for scholars.

1. Grant scheme for students

It has been agreed that the mobility grant scheme for students will provide for students from each institution to spend a semester at one of the partner institutions:

- EUBA will send two students per year to Sciences Po and ULg – each semester, one student in each institution.
- Sciences Po will send two students per year to EUBA and ULg – two students in each institution, for a full year.
- ULg will send two students per year to EUBA and Sciences Po – each semester, one student in each institution.

This scheme will thus provide for a total of 12 students per year to spend time at a partner institution (24 students altogether for the duration of the project, as time was too short to implement the scheme in the first year of the project). Students participating in the scheme will be selected based on their academic merits.

The duration of the mobility scheme will be one semester (3-4 months, according to the host institution) for students of EUBA and ULg, and one year for students from Sciences Po.

Provided grant:

EUBA	700 €/month
ScPo	700 €/month + Erasmus allowance for Masters students 1000 € for doctoral students
ULG	700 €/month + Erasmus allowance

The grant shall be paid in monthly instalments.

Courses that the visiting students will need to follow will be in line with the EDGE project objectives/topics and they are to be identified by each host institution. The list of courses available is to be provided by each institution before the first mobilities take place (before September 2016). Each student will have to attend a minimum of 3 courses and acquire a minimum of 15 ECTS.

Students enrolled in the mobility scheme will also be encouraged to attend the annual summer school of the project, organised on a rotating basis by each institution. Students who attend EDGE courses at their home institutions and at the host institution for a minimum of 30 ECTS will receive an EDGE Certificate at the completion of their 30 ECTS.

Eligible students: undergraduate/graduate/doctoral (to be specified by each host institution, according to the level of the courses offered).

Note: For doctoral students it is optional to substitute some of the courses by relevant research work carried out at the host institution.

2. Grant schemes for scholars and staff

a. Short-term grants (scholars and staff)

Short-term mobility grants will be provided to scholars working on joint research and preparing joint publications with colleagues from the partner institutions. These grants will be attributed to scholars from all three universities, and reviewed by a committee comprised of faculty from the three universities. They will allow for better integration of especially young researchers from all three partner institutions. These grants will also be used to fund visits of executive staff of the universities in order to insure sustainability of the partnership after the duration of the project.

The amount of the grant will vary according to the durations of the stay, and shall be determined by the institution of origin.

The grants scheme will provide for 3 visits per year from each institution (a total of 9 mobilities/year, 18 grants together for the duration of the project).

The applicants will be selected based upon their research plans, which will need to include a plan for a joint publication/a joint research project application.

b. Long-term grants (scholars)

Long-term mobility grants will be provided to professors and researchers, in order to allow faculty members of each institution to spend a semester or a year with another partner of the project. These long-term visits will allow for the visiting faculty member to engage in joint projects with the host institution as well as to teach one or more courses or doctoral seminars.

During the course of the project, the aim is to ensure that at least one member of each institution will spend a semester or a year in a partner institution. It is expected that up to 6 grants will be allocated during the project, for a duration varying between three months and one year. Applicants will be selected based upon their research/teaching plans, by a committee comprised of faculty from the three universities. The amount of the grant will be determined individually, according to the duration of the stay and the host country.

Agreed in Paris on 9 September 2016.
